Wondering, Worrying, Wishing

Occasions witnessing speakers of all hues fantasising about the land's glorious past and the legends associated on one side and platforms from where people are face-to-face with the land's literati worrying about the fast deteriorating quality of life across different sections of society on the other side are being reported in the dailies. Sandwiched between these two factions in the milieu are the rest fooling themselves as it were dreaming of a golden future for the nation and the coming generations. Irked by the media portraying Indians who matter in brazenly unflattering manner, a House Committee of the Karnataka Legislative Assembly has been set up ostensibly to frame rules and regulations for the news media, a measure that has evoked criticism from journalists.

The media has been charged by the law-makers as reporting on happenings in public domain arbitrarily and irresponsibly by sensationalising trivial family disputes, crime and ghost stories for improving the television rating point. While the law-makers losing no time in self-certification of their impeccable profile is well-taken, one is prompted to remark that if unpleasant things are said about someone or something, there is probably a good reason. The idiom, "There is no smoke without fire" is born out of experience marked by "gossip or accusations" are often substantiated by fact.

The land's legends to whom we owe our euphoria while refreshing ourselves about their monumental achievements in different fields including philosophy, literature, music, architecture, sculpture, agriculture, science, mathematics, State craft, governance of the land and its people, to make only a partial list, didn't have to worry themselves about figuring awkwardly in gossip circles unlike the current flock of law-makers, mistakenly perceived as duly elected representatives of the land's people themselves, barring some microscopic exceptions. Now, the media, guaranteed by the nation's Constitution to carry out its business backed by well-framed rights, apparently has no issues with its patrons, thus not only passing the litmus test of professional norms but also remaining without crossing the Laxman Rekha as it were.

Lastly, notwithstanding the adage "If wishes were horses, beggars would ride them," in order to realise the wishes of the diaspora for the golden days ahead, we have a long list of tasks such as protecting greenery, water bodies, air quality, denizens of the forests, women, economically deprived sections and so on, alongside protecting the humble journalists from persecution unwarrantedly.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

After a failed attempt on the life of the then British PM Margaret Thatcher, the Irish Republican Army sent her an unnerving message: "You need to be lucky all the time, we need to be lucky once." Thatcher lived a full life of 87 years and the IRA is almost history now. But the spine-chilling threat conveyed through this missive still haunts security agencies across the world, albeit in a changed context. With the new phenomenon of religious terrorism armed with lone wolves, this threat holds truer in present times. On the other hand, civil society and its security agencies need to be lucky at all times to ensure people do not get radicalised.

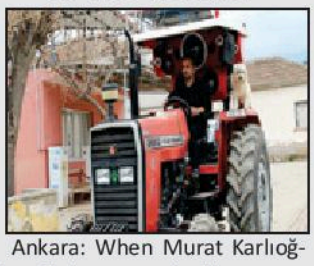
Costly music system to his tractor



Ankara: When Murat Karlıoğlu rolls into town in his tractor, his neighbours can literally hear him coming from a mile away. The 30-year-old farmer has spent over 7,000 Turkish lira on a custom sound system for his farming vehicle, which he uses to pump out his favourite music wherever he goes.

Karlıoğlu, from the town of Nazilli, Turkey's Aydın Province, loves listening to music as he works in the fields. He was never satisfied with his earlier descent sound system, so after saving a bit of money, he decided to invest it in a custom sound system you would expect to find in an expensive sports car or a tuning project from the likes of West Coast Customs. Complete with powerful speakers, a large sub-woofer and sound amplifiers, Murat's system has made the young farmer a celebrity in Nazilli. But the biggest fan of Karlıoğlu's musical tractor is the farmer's pet dog, Jessie. Jesse's been accompanying his master to work every day, sitting quietly on one of the wheel covers and enjoying the loud music.

Ssssoothing neck massage!

Berlin: A German hair salon is stretching the boundaries of who — or what — can be a masseuse.

The Haar Mode Team salon in Dresden is now offering neck massages performed by Monty, the owner's pet python. Monty Python sits around the customer's neck and gently pulsates in a manner that is probably ssssoothing if you're not snake-phobic like Indiana Jones.

Although a python tends to kill its prey by wrapping around it and squeezing it to death, Monty's owner, Falk Dohler, says that his python masseuse has been trained to be slightly more gentle. The 4-foot snake is 90 percent muscle, making him well-suited to the task. "In the beginning, I was a little bit afraid," she told Ruptly in the video above. "I thought the snake would be cold. But I should say, no, it is warm and it is a very pleasant feeling when it pulsates, when it massages the neck."

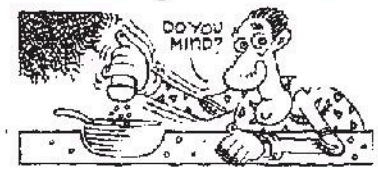
How does salt raise blood pressure?



The presence of sodium (salt) in the bloodstream causes the endothelial cells lining the arteries to stiffen, raising blood pressure. This occurs within minutes of consuming salt. Nitric oxide, which relaxes blood vessel walls, is also inhibited by the sodium.

VOICE OF THE READER

Namma Rashtriya Panchanga...

Sir,

If you had listened to All India Radio Mysuru (FM 100.6) at 5:54 am on 22nd March 2017, the announcer would have said that as per the national calendar it was the first day of the month of 'Chaitra' of 'Shalivahana Saka' year 1939! This information intrigued me quite a bit as we normally celebrate the "Chandramana Ugadi" around the fourth week of March and the "Souramana Ugadi" on 14th of April every year.

The fact is that when the great Indian astronomer Aryabhata (476-523 AD) devised the Hindu calendar as per the Earth's rotation around the Sun (most probably then mistakenly assumed the other way round), he asserted 22nd March (the day on which the Sun is right above the equator and the day time and night time are equal) as the New Year Day correctly.

He also asserted 22nd March 78AD as the beginning of the Shalivahana Saka. At that time astronomy was purely based on visual observations of celestial bodies without telescope and one can expect some minor errors. This in fact happened and his Solar year was short by a few minutes compared to the actual Solar year.

This minor error has resulted in pushing the Souramana Ugadi by a day every once in 60 years and thus by the middle of last century it was being celebrated on the 14th of April. In 1955, the Government of India constituted a high-level committee who corrected this error and though officially 22nd March is the New Year Day as per the Souramana calendar, for sentimental reasons it is being celebrated on 14th of April every year.

Fortunately, none of the festivals such as Navarathri, Vijayadashami, Krishna Jayanthi, Shivarathri, etc., are affected as these festivals are based on Chandramana calendar. Similarly, most Indians perform their birthdays and death anniversaries of their ancestors as per the Chandramana calendar and hence are correct.

Indian EVMs cannot be Hacked or Tampered

New Delhi, Mar. 28- Just after the election results of 5 States were out, the Bahujan Samajwadi Party Supremo Mayawati alleged that the Electronic Voting Machines (EVMs) have been tampered with, otherwise this result in Uttar Pradesh elections is not at all possible.

After that, the New Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal also expressed his doubt about EVMs and ordered that the MCD elections should be conducted on ballot paper rather than on EVMs. However, as per the Chief Election Commissioner Sanjay Srivastava, it is not possible to tamper with EVMs. Moreover, he has also written his answer regarding this matter to the Delhi Government.

EVMs are not connected to Internet, so they cannot be hacked online. The Chief Election Commissioner has written to the Delhi Government that they need to change the rules themselves if they want to conduct elections with ballet paper. Besides, it will also take a lot of time in printing ballet paper and arranging ballet boxes.

Political parties don't know about EVM allotment: In order to decide which EVM will be allotted to which booth, first Lok Sabha area, then Vidhan Sabha area and finally, the booth is finalised. Polling party gets to know about the EVM it is getting at the time of dispatching only.

Three EVM units ensure credibility: EVM has two machines, ballot and control, and presently the third unit known as VVPAT is also included in the EVM, which shows a paper to the voter after which the voter can be certain that his/her vote has been cast correctly.

EVM mock polling: EVMs are checked before voting and even a mock polling exercise is also done by the polling party in front of the polling agents of all the candidates. After the mock polling, the polling agents give certificate of correct mock poll to the incharge of polling booth. Not only this, there are signatures of polling agents on the machines which can be checked by the agents at the time of counting.

No proof of EVM tampering: Some cases of EVM tampering have been presented in the Supreme Court; however, nothing has been proved.

According to the Election Commission of India (ECI), till date 107 elections to States and three Parliamentary polls have been smoothly conducted using the EVMs.

Self-propelled and cleverest among BJP's State Chiefs, Adityanath could emerge as the star to watch

Point of VIEW

T.J.S. George

It is possible that Yogi Adityanath is not the communal dracula he is seen to be. He is, of course, a Hindutvavadi with a history of promoting doctrinal dogmatics of the extreme kind. But he is unlike the usual fringe zealots whose foolish statements shame their own mentors. He is intelligent. He is capable. He is clever. Importantly, he is beholden to no one in the political hierarchy of the day, yet he is a force the hierarchy cannot ignore. He has worked out his own narrative, not always in sync with the BJP's. Think of the implications of this exceptionality.

Think of the eight long days it took the BJP High Command to name him as the Chief Minister choice. Obviously, there was no ready consensus. On the contrary, there must have been efforts by important elements in the High Command to block him. Eventually they had to yield to the forces that were behind him. Who were against him and why? Who fought for him and why? In which camp was Narendra Modi?

Answers will not be available outside the innermost circles of the BJP and RSS. But there were reports that, apart from other things, Adityanath's sword arm, the Hindu Yuva Vahini, would create trouble if their Maharaj was sidelined. Right or wrong, the idea drew attention to Adityanath's uniqueness: No one else in the ruling dispensation has his own fighting arm of activists. Adityanath may belong to the BJP, but the BJP needs him more than he needs the BJP.

It is against this background that the new Chief Minister's debut pronouncements must be judged. The perceived dracula turned into a paragon of pragmatism as he managed to say that "development is my priority," then warned the bureaucrats of penal action if they did not check communal flare-ups, crimes against women, and, yes, cow slaughter. Sanitation had to be taken up on a war-footing, he told them. Off with lal battis on top of government cars, he ordered. And he asked his Ministers and Senior Civil Servants to provide details of their income and assets within 15 days. One thing is sure: Unlike BJP Chief Ministers in most other States, Yogi Adityanath will not be corrupt.

He developed impersonal goals as part of his sadhana as a temple priest. But then, inflexible ideological steadfastness is part of the same sadhana. It is no accident that the big issues that filled the UP air within two days of his taking over were not women's safety and sanitation, but the Ram Temple and slaughter houses. Ayodhya was a cause the revered Gorakhnath Peeth had taken up before the BJP or RSS did. Earlier, temple heads had resorted to militant action to promote the cause. Adityanath is the proud inheritor of that tradition of militancy which would explain the explosive declamations he made from time to time against Muslims.

That background would have made Adityanath the candidate preferred by Hindutva hard-liners who would like to "turn UP into a saffron laboratory on the lines of Gujarat." The BJP laid the foundations for experimentation by not fielding even one Muslim candidate in a State that is home to 140 million Muslims. Adityanath took into his Cabinet a solitary Muslim, a benign cricketer. But he also made Suresh Rana a Minister despite the man's role in the Muzaffarnagar riots and four cases pending against him.

So where does the mix of signals leave UP and India? The intelligent politician in Adityanath will try to ensure that there are no Muzaffarnagars in UP now and that the Ram Temple issue is handled without triggering violence. However, he may not be too keen to control vigilantes who, always more loyal than the king, will insist that all meat is beef, all love is jihad. Since the BJP attributes its enormous victory in the State elections to its conscious policy of divisiveness, that line may be pursued for the run-up to the 2019 election as well.

In all this, Adityanath's role as UP's Supremo will be critical. He will put his stamp on events as the days pass because he has a standing of his own unlike other State leaders who are mere extensions of the Central command.

Yogi Adityanath's potential to emerge as a BJP star in his own right is what the world will be watching. Already there are references to him as "another Modi" and "the new Modi."

Adityanath's potential to emerge as a BJP star in his own right — a potential not shared by anyone else — is what the world will be watching. Already there are references to him as "another Modi" and "the new Modi." And he is only 44.

Brahmakumaris lauded for their service to society

Mysuru, Mar.28 - "There is no life without woman. But still only when man and woman strive together can health and happiness be established in this society," opined Nirmala Mathapati, Deputy Director of Rangayana.

She was speaking as the chief guest at the International Women's Day organised by Brahmakumaris, Yadavagiri.

Continuing, she said that to gain success in life, man and woman need to work together. At the same time it has become the prerogative of man to provide equal opportunities and facilities to woman at this juncture. Even in 21st century, a woman is sometimes being treated as a second class citizen by the family and the society, despite she showcasing her abilities and skills. Therefore, a woman needs to be provided the same forum and position that the other sex is enjoying so that a better society is created, she added.

Dr. K. Anantharamu, Kannada writer, who presided over the programme, said that in a family atmosphere, it is the patience, perseverance and sacrifice of woman that is helping the family members to progress. Normally the woman feeds herself last and only after the men folk are fed is a great virtue. Such are the qualities of a woman which she imbibes by her birth that have made her personality stronger though she may be weak physically compared to man.

In Brahmakumaris, it is heartening to note that women are the leaders and they take all the decisions for the benefit of the institution. Perhaps this is the only institution of this magnitude in this world which is being run by women. Therefore, Brahmakumaris need to be saluted for their magnificent service that they are rendering to the society, he said.

In his keynote address, BK Ranganath, Hon. Principal of Rajyoga Education Foundation, Mysuru, expressed that womanhood is mainly a state of mind which needs to be encouraged for her all-round development right from childhood by parents.

C. Prabha, HM, Government Girls High School, N.R. Mohalla and Radha Neelkant, a woman leader, shared their thoughts. BK Lakshmiji, Head of Mysuru Sub-Zone, Brahmakumaris, graced the occasion. BK Shambavi and others rendered songs on specialties of women. BK Shivleela compered. BK Manjula proposed a vote of thanks.

Mysuru, Mar. 28 (DVG&US)- Jain International Trade Organisation (JITO), Mysore Chapter, had organised a function at MMC&RI Platinum Jubilee Hall in J.K. Grounds here on Sunday for the installation and oath taking ceremony of the new team of JITO, Mysore Chapter, for the year 2017-19.

Speaking on the occasion, Rajendra Gandhi, Chairman, Karnataka, Kerala and Goa (KKG) Zone, said that JITO was striving for the Jain community and its economic development.

He pointed out that though the size of Jain community in Nepal was very small, many of them were members of JITO which should be emulated everywhere.

He added that if an investor in JITO dies, the invested money would be handed over to the family of the deceased.

Addressing the gathering, Gauttam Kumar Jain, Director, JITO Apex, Mysore in-charge, said that JITO was very trust-worthy for investment and added that the facilities provided to society was a testimony to that and it was a matter of pride that JITO members were among the elite class in India.

Delivering a talk titled 'Charan Sparsh,' Rahul Kapoor, an inspirational speaker and author, who is also the official host for Royal Challengers Bangalore for IPL, said that touching the feet of parents would invoke divine grace and added that the blessings of parents would enthuse spirit in life and agility would follow automatically.

He, however, regretted that a few people keep their parents at a distance which could boomerang to them in life.

With examples and anecdotes, Rahul Kapoor unwound the selfless love, affection and sacrifice of parents so effectively, it moistened the eyes of many in the audience.

TO QUIT CONGRESS OR NOT...

S.M. Krishna's followers in a dilemma

Mandya, Mar. 28 (NG&DM)- Even as senior leader and former Chief Minister S.M. Krishna joined the BJP recently, his followers in his native district of Mandya are in a dilemma whether to follow their leader or not.

The people of Mandya have voted for Congress and JD(S) candidates all these years, with BJP failing to make its debut.

Caste and power politics is predominant in Mandya and in such a situation, veteran leader Krishna's entry into BJP has created a sort of confusion among his followers in the district.

Although some of his followers have quit the Congress, many of them have remained in the Congress, with which Krishna was associated for over four decades.

Ravindra Srikantaiah, a Krishna supporter from Srirangapatna quit the Congress recently following the footsteps of his leader. But Ravindra is yet to decide on his future political moves.

Another Krishna supporter, Kalpana Siddaraju, a former Maddur MLA, has clarified that she would not leave the Congress while Krishna's other staunch supporters Gurucharan and Kadalur Ramakrishna have quit the Congress.

In K.R. Pet, former MLA K.B. Chandrashekar, a strong supporter of Krishna, seems to be in no mood to quit the Congress.

In Nagamangala, former MLA Suresh Gowda, though keen to quit the Congress, is said to be not intent on joining the BJP. Instead, the former MLA is said to be keen on joining the JD(S) and contest on a JD(S) ticket in the 2018 Assembly polls.

In Mandya, MLA and former Minister Ambarish is yet to speak up his mind on his future political moves. Ambarish was dropped from the Cabinet in last year's major reshuffle and since then, he seems to be less active in politics.

However, Krishna has no strong supporters in Pandavapura and Malavalli Assembly segments.

Malavalli MLA P.M. Narendraswamy is a staunch follower of CM Siddharamaiah and hence there was no question of him leaving the Congress.

Ramya absent from scene

Despite all these developments, cine actor and former MP Ramya is conspicuously absent from Mandya political scenario.

Ramya's foster father R.T. Narayan, who passed away a couple of years ago, was a close associate of Krishna. But Ramya, who has remained politically inactive after her defeat in the 2014 Lok Sabha polls, is rarely seen in the constituency these days. Although she has rented a house in Mandya, she hardly visits it.

Though Ramya has not yet announced her future political plans, BJP workers in Mandya, speculating over the entry of Ramya into the party, have severely opposed her induction.

One BJP worker in Mandya even declared that he would end his life in front of the party office if Ramya was inducted into the party.

In the backdrop of all these developments, it is interesting to see the political configuration that may take place in the district in the coming days.

Government faces flak for absence of Ministers

Bengaluru, Mar. 28 (KMS& DM)- With the entire State Cabinet busy in campaigning for the Congress candidates in Nanjangud and Gundlupet by-polls, the Opposition parties on Monday slammed the Government for the absence of Ministers in the ongoing Assembly session.

Soon after the session commenced for the day, Opposition leader Jagadish Shettar, taking into note that none of the Ministers were present, questioned the Speaker about their absence.

Alleging that the Government had not taken the budget session seriously, Shettar demanded an answer from the Government.

Just as Shettar was taking on the Government, Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister T.B. Jayachandra, who walked into the house, tried to calm down the Opposition stating that the budget discussion can continue and the Ministers are expected to arrive anytime.

WORD OF THE DAY

Perpend

Pronunciation: per-PEND
Meaning: To reflect on carefully; ponder; to be attentive.
Origin: Perpend isn't used often these days, but when it does show up it is frequently imperative, as in "Perpend the following." As such, its use can be compared to the phrases "consider this" or "mark my words." Perpend arrived in English in the 15th century from the Latin verb perpendere, which in turn comes from pendere, meaning "to weigh." Appropriately, our English word essentially means "to weigh carefully in the mind." Pendere has several descendants in English, including append, compendium, expend, and suspend. Perpend can also be a noun meaning "a brick or large stone reaching through a wall" or "a wall built of such stones," but that perpend comes from a Middle French source and is unrelated to the verb.

THE ODD WORD

Defenestrate

To throw a person or thing out of a window.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Fight fire with fire

Meaning: Respond to an attack by using a similar method as one's attacker.

Origin: When we 'fight fire with fire' we are likely to employ more extreme methods than we would normally do. That was what Shakespeare was referring to in King John, 1595:
Be stirring as the time; be fire with fire;
Threaten the threatener and outface the brow.
The earliest usage of 'fight fire with fire' in print is in the US author Henry Tappan's 1852 reminisom the New World to the Old, and Back Again.

QUOTE BOX

Love is the joy of the good, the wonder of the wise, the amazement of the Gods.

—Plato
